Library Signs Contract For Expanded Services

The public library has signed an agreement for a cooperative service with Riverside Regional Library with headquarters at Jackson.

Norval Cannon, president of the library board, said that as a result the Sikeston library hopes to gradually expand its services. The contract will be in effect until Dec. 31, 1969.

The Riverside library is composed of the Cape Girardeau county, Perry county and Scott county libraries. It maintains centers at Ilmo, Benton, Perryville and Altenburg in addition to Jackson.

Each library district will retain a separate board and staff but jointly offer broadened services. One of the first tasks will be to make arrangements for a children's summer reading program.

Mrs. L. W. Kasten of Jackson will be the alternate.

Greater discounts will be available from joint purchases of books and other materials.

"It is felt that participating libraries working together collectively will be able to broaden library services and reach goals not within the reach of any single library," the contract states.

The cooperative library service will be governed by a board to which each participating library has elected three members.

Cannon appointed Mrs. Robert Dempster, Mrs. Harry White and Tom Gilmore to represent the Sikeston library with Paul Bumberger as alternate.

Representing Riverside on the board will be Dr. Theodore Fischer of Altenburg with Harold Klaus, Perryville as alternate.

Dr. Fischer is president of the Riverside board.

Otto A. Koening is Riverside librarian and Miss Lenora Norman is Sikeston librarian.

The signing of the contract between the libraries followed several months of negotiations.

The Sikeston library district has an assessed valuation of $15,500,000 and that of Riverside $95,000,000.

The book budget of the library is approximately $6,000 and that of Riverside $16,000.

The building of 100 units by private investors will cost more than a million dollars based on an average cost of $10,000 per unit.

The additional property would generate between $18,000 and $20,000 added annual revenue to the city from city taxes.

The program would boost the local economy because local materials and labor would most likely be employed in construction, Hanna said.

The private investors would be required to pay taxes and insurance on the buildings, he continued.

Although the Housing Authority received approval to lease 100 units last Tuesday, it will not enter into an actual lease contracts until the units are built.

It will award letters of intent to contractors and investors guaranteeing the Housing Authority will rent the units for 10 years if they are built by September.

The amount of rent will depend on the size of the unit. Low income persons will pay a percentage of the monthly rent bill.

The remainder of the bill will be paid by the Sikeston Housing authority with funds received through the HUD office under the leased housing program.

HANCO, North Vietnam (De-

laved (AP) — The first impression acquired by a reporter returning to Hanoi 14 months later is that a kind of mutual escalation prevails over this war in North Vietnam.

In Hanoi almost incidentally, but conspicuously in the countryside, you see the violent wake of the American bombers.

The damage from aerial bombardment is much greater than when this writer visited North Vietnam in January, 1967.

However, as the air raids have proliferated, the North Vietnamese have "escalated" their defenses and their competence to survive a more intense war from the air.

The Hanoi area, for instance, must be nested in one of the most sophisticated and effective warning systems in the world,

Through the metallic voices of the hundreds of loudspeakers across the city, the people are alerted when U.S. planes are headed toward Hanoi.

The wood and concrete sagging destruction was surgically accomplished, and its industrial facilities are few, and it depends much upon time given the people to hot foot it to a shelter. The exception was when a reconnaissance plane sneaked through the radar web and was in the city's air space before it was discovered.

The plane had not crossed over

Hanoi before the anti-aircraft made its ugly, staccato announcement, and you could hear the busy reports of groundfire from southwest of the city, out beyond Hanoi to the east, along the banks of the Red River.

It is little more than a year ago,

the rolling stock in Vietnam appeared to be the ragged items of an impoverished motor pool, the trucks were old, usually small, and frequently you saw them stalled or expired along rumored of the bombing of Hanoi, and the leaders here tell you that the city was bombed 50 times in 1967.

Now it is apparent that North Vietnam has invested much of its line of credit with the country.

But Hanoi is not really a blitzed city in the traumatic style of Rotterdam, or even

London, in World War II. Rather, it has been sort of nickel at-

Or perhaps they were nuisance raids or those punishing mis-tares common to the making of war.

This may be a cruel way to express an impression of the destruction of Hanoi, because quite a few people were killed and injured when bombs fell on Haiphong.

Dead is Mary Evelyn Dale, 15,

of Winfield, in Franklin county, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Dale, tured skull in the crash. The mother was one of four killed in the accident.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

After the honeymoon, a married woman is not comfortable on her husband's lap.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who has a long history of chatter, reports that his wife complains that he talks too much.

Fulbright has stuck his foot in his mouth on an occasion or two.

He has a background as a teacher before going to Congress. Both are talkative occupations. The ultimate, of course, would be to combine these professions with barbering or preaching or both.

Teachers often acquire an unsatisfactory appetite for hearing the sound of their own voice. Whether they have anything to say can become secondary. Why not? Talking becomes a habit and those who talk a lot usually talk with the greatest ease and fluency.

Many men do not talk enough. It is their wives who do all the talking.

Fulbright is somewhat envied by other husbands, who are in a less fortunate position. It is too bad he confines his talk to foreign relations and not in behalf of henpecked husbands. He is missing an opportunity to help other men. So much needs to be done and so few can help.

What got the Arkansas senator in the soup with his wife most recently as his initial pessimistic view about the prospects for peace in Vietnam as a result of the withdrawal of President Lyndon B. Johnson as a candidate to succeed himself.

Mrs. Fulbright gave him the diction for this and the senator grudgingly and with dignity gave ground.

He sits in the Senate, the greatest deliberative body in the world. What could a Senate deliberate if its members didn't talk?

This doesn't impress a wife, not even the wife of a Senator. Who ever heard of a wife, who when confronted with her husband's talk, was willing to take time to deliberate.

It is their habit to return the fire without deliberation.

Pleasant as it would be to uphold Senator Fulbright we cannot in good conscience after careful deliberation give him any credit.

He has placed himself in a lonely position. Mrs. Fulbright is right. The senator will have to defend himself as best he can.

WHAT THEY SAY

ABOUT NATIONALISM

Our country today, to my mind, needs nationalism, patriotism, Americanism, like it never needed it before in its history, and it should be taught right from the time a youngster goes to kindergarten. We should have reverence for our flag; we should have reverence for the Constitution, our Bill of Rights, and our children should be taught that. For some unknown reason today, they are forgetting American history and those things they used to respect--at least I did when I was a boy. I was taught at West Point duty, honor, country, and I think that motto could well go to all red-blooded Americans. We need it today.

So spoke General George Stratemeyer before a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary a few years ago. His plea that patriotism be instilled into the hearts and minds of all Americans is timely and important.

The history of the United States of America is one of the great success stories of all time. The men and women who founded and built this nation were patriots who shared two distinctive characteristics: faith in God and the courage that grows out of love of country.

"Nationalism" nowadays is often used to convey a negative meaning. There are those in America who decry the existence of what they call a nationalist spirit, and would have us believe there is something wrong about putting the interests of the United States ahead of the interests of other countries.

These are the same people who tell us that patriotism is out of date, that our Constitution is not geared to modern times, that national sovereignty is a silly concept that should be abandoned.

Our forefathers fought for peace with Freedom. But now are told that the emphasis must be on peace, not Freedom; we are told that we must "strengthen the United Nations"; that we must disarm; that we must submit to strict international controls. In other words, we must surrender on the installment plan to an enemy that has openly declared its intention of wiping out what we call Freedom.

It should be noted that only the United States is being asked to abandon nationalism; that is, a concern for its own interests. In Africa, Asia, Eastern and Western Europe, countries proclaim their nationalistic feelings. Every one of the nations we have subsidized so heavily with dollars from the American taxpayer is concerned first, last and always with national self-interest.

But for the United States, internationalism is held to be the sound and unnecessary goal.

A constant stream of propaganda is poured out to the effect that the United Nations is the great symbol of peace in the world. It is an idea that will not stand up under even the most simple examination.

The kind of "peace" coming from the United Nations caused more than 54,000 Americans to be killed in Korea and more than 103,000 more to be wounded. The UN brand of peace did not prevent the rape and pillage of Katanga. Peace of the UN variety has established Marxist spy rings in the United States. UN "peace-keeping" efforts did not manage to make themselves felt in the Hungarian revolt against Soviet tanks.

When the UN was born, 200 million people in the world were under communist domination. Today, the number is approximately one billion -- about one-third of the human race. Let us not forget that during the time the United Nations has had its headquarters on American soil, communism has advanced to within 90 miles of the U.S. mainland.

The internationalists are eager to extend their policies to trade, as well as aid. In the field of world commerce, they favor policies guided not by what is best for American producers but by what will best serve the interests of other nations.

It is well known that the international course has never been deliberately chosen by the American people. There has been one time in our history when Americans were given an opportunity to make a clear-cut choice between internationalism and American nationalism: in 1920, when the League of Nations was an issue. The advocates of American participation in the League were overwhelmingly defeated.

Since that time, the American people have never been given a chance to vote on proposals to downgrade the national independence of the United States. And since that time, this independence has been worn away by secret diplomacy and deliberate misrepresentation linked with an international conspiracy against Freedom.

The internationalists talk much about the "force of reaction" -- those Americans who stand with their patriotic forefathers in giving first attention to the good of their own country. In reality, it is the one-worlder who has the reactionary approach. It is the patriot, the nationalist, if you please, who has the constructive, positive, progressive approach.

The patriot is FOR Freedom; FOR limitation of governmental power in accordance with the Constitution; FOR America standing firm for the principles of Freedom.

This affirmative policy of wanting our government to give first attention to what is best for the United States is scorned by the one-worlders as nationalism.

Why should we not be nationalistic? This is our country, and our Freedom is at stake. We know the American way of life is a good way. We cherish it, and we must employ our best efforts to preserve it.

Under our system, the American people have enjoyed Freedom to an extent that has been the envy of the world. In our enjoyment of it, we have tended to forget that Freedom is never free. Each generation must earn it.

In the world of today, we cannot expect to keep our Freedoms unless we take pride in our heritage and unless we determine to uphold the principles which have thus far secured that Freedom.

A tidal wave of expressed love of country, of interest and participation in formulating the national destiny, could impress the world that we Americans have something very special that other nations could seek for themselves. Such a regeneration of Americanism would give our nation new strength and command respect all over the world.

Certainly we have much to be enthusiastic about, especially if we restore fully the basic principles of the Founding Fathers. Our government was designed as one of limited powers: a government deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed. Many checks and balances were placed on government with the purpose of insuring that no single branch of government could assume overwhelming power. To the extent that those checks and balances have come to be ignored or overridden, to an equal extent our Freedom has suffered.

The first men and women who came to America brought with them the belief that Freedom is God-given. These early Americans were well aware that it is the nature of government to encroach on the Freedoms of the people: they had fled such tyranny.

Later, the belief of these Pilgrims that liberty comes from God was written into the Declaration of Independence.

In the Constitution, they set the pattern for true peace and true liberty for mankind. They gave us the right way of limited government.

That is not the pattern followed by the internationalists. It was not by accident that the charter of the United Nations contains no reference to a super-national being. That omission is completely in keeping with the internationalist pattern.

A tidal wave of magnificent Americanism would bring miraculous results, for Americans and the rest of the world. It could make our treasured Freedom secure and put to rest the doubts now in the minds of other nations as to whether we still possess the will to remain free.

If we really care about Freedom for all people and if we are really concerned about their well-being, we will demonstrate to them that we intend to remain free. We must show them by our deeds and let them know we desire Freedom for them by refusing to give up our own.

Alarmed by the fact that Missouri has experienced a tragic number of traffic deaths during the eight day period from Palm Sunday through Easter Sunday over the past years, Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today urged drivers and pedestrians to be extra cautious during this year's Holy Week.

"This special religious week has been one of the tragic periods in Missouri traffic," Hockaday declared. "It rivals the carnage experienced on our highways over the Christmas and New Year holidays. Our records show that 178 persons have been killed on the State's streets and highways over the past five Holy Week periods. Included in this toll are 25 pedestrians. Last year, 45 persons were killed during the week preceding Easter."

The Patrol Superintendent urged drivers to be particularly alert for pedestrians during Holy Week. He pointed out that many people will be walking to special church services. At the same time, Hockaday reminded pedestrians of the need for them to follow the rules of safe walking during this period.

"Many people will be traveling to visit relatives and friends over to Easter Sunday weekend," the Colonel continued. "The high ways will be crowded. It behoves everyone, therefore, to use caution in his travels.

"The traffic death toll during this year's Holy Week can be expected to be particularly high for pedestrians during Holy Week. The last time before the present Administration had spent a total of $40 1/4 billion more than had been collected in revenues. Shortly thereafter it was admitted at the White House that the 1968 deficit might run as high as $28 billion. That would put the average deficit for each of the five years at $13.7 billion.

Those figures are clear evidence that Congress has been misjudging the size of the whole pie pretty seriously. We hope Senator Allott's bill will be passed before another budget pie comes up to Congress.

SELLING IS LIKE CHASING WOMEN

George Kahn, the famous sales authority, tells a story of a young salesman who knew he kept a photograph of a pretty girl on his desk. "Your wife?" Kahn asked one day.

"No," the salesman replied, "I was hoping so, but she can't see it that way. The last time I asked her out she was busy. The time before that she had a headache."

"But what about the times before that?" Kahn asked. "It took some time. But imagine cutting a pie into thirteen slices? The impress-

Something new in the field of vehicle traffic has been accompanied by a steadily mounting number of fatalities. The death toll has climbed to a new high in each of the five years surveyed, from 40,800 in 1962 to an estimated 53,000 in 1966, while preliminary '67 estimates hint that the number of deaths and the death rate due to motor vehicles will remain at about 53,000 and 27 per 100,000 population, respectively.

The increase in the motor vehicle fatality rate reflects an upward trend in the motor vehicle accident rate for both sexes at virtually all ages. Among males at ages 15-19, the motor vehicle fatality rate rose by almost a fourth in the period under review, while at ages 25-64 it increased by about a fifth. At ages 65 and over, the corresponding increase in the accidental death rate was only 11 per cent, and for young men in the age range 20-24 it was 13 per cent. The motor vehicle fatality rate among these younger men is far higher than at any other period of life, about 80 per 100,000 population. The next highest fatality rates have been recorded among men 75 and over and boys 15-19 years of age.

WAS busy, and DID HAVE a headache when he called. These are common occurrences.

The young man promised to call her again at evenning. Apparently he kept his promise because they were married within six months.

Kahn draws a moral from this experience: "It's probably not an exaggeration to say that there are far more salesmen who give up too early than there are reluctant Romeo's. Men who would chase a woman to the ends of the earth often fail to persevere in a simple selling situation."

"Studies show that 48% -- almost half -- of all salesmen quit cold after a single call on a prospect. Another 20% make two calls before quitting, 7% make three, and 5% make four.

"The remaining 20% make five calls or more, and these are the men who get from 75% to 80% of the business.

"These are the men who persevere -- and without perseverance there can be no success. This is true in every walk of life, but more so in selling."

Are you having trouble finding a big enough break in traffic to get your automobile out of the driveway? Well, don't expect things to get better. U.S. Government forecasts indicate that there will be 126 million licensed drivers in the United States by 1975.

We already have over 100 million drivers. In fact, statistics show the number of drivers increased from 90.5 million to 102 million between 1961 and 1966, the last year for which figures are available. And of course the number of registered vehicles and the vehicle-miles traveled have also increased.

The largest proportionate increases in the numbers driving occurred at ages under 20 and among those 65 years and older. There were approximately 10 million drivers at ages under 20, or about 60 per cent more than five years ago. The number of elderly drivers rose by a third, to an estimated 8 million. The drivers between 20 and 65 years of age did not increase as much: only 6 per cent at ages 20-24, and 3 per cent at ages 35-39.

Thus, as Chalmers D. Roberts wrote in the Washington Post, the possible options the President would have had during the development of the affair were constrained by these two critical decisions made before they even heard of the incident.

Another story alleges that an aide on the Joint Chiefs of Staff leaked word the next day of the impending call-up of reserves. Anticipating its effect on Wall Street, he telephoned his broker some hours before the announcement of the call-up and instructed him to sell his stocks.

The circumstances of the Pueblo incident are unsettling enough. But there is about this latter story a distinctly unpleasant odor -- something reminiscent of rats and sinking ships.

"Love thy neighbor." "I do, I do, but her husband doesn't like it."

Only last month, every Republican on the house rules committee lined up behind Rep. William Comer of Pascagoula, Miss., to bottle up the civil rights bill in order to give the real estate lobby time to swing votes against the open housing section of the bill.

Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, the GOP house leader who has demonstrated his ability to line up Republican votes almost at will, did not lift a finger to change a single vote. One vote change could have got the civil rights bill out of committee, but Ford did not lift a finger.

It remains there as of today. Perhaps, now that Martin Luther King is dead, it will be voted out.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

After the honeymoon, a married woman is not comfortable on her husband's lap.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who has a long history of chatter, reports that his wife complains that he talks too much.

Fulbright has stuck his foot in his mouth on an occasion or two.

He has a background as a teacher before going to Congress. Both are talkative occupations. The ultimate, of course, would be to combine these professions with barbering or preaching or both.

Teachers often acquire an unsatisfactory appetite for hearing the sound of their own voice. Whether they have anything to say can become secondary.

Why not? Talking becomes a habit and those who talk a lot usually talk with the greatest ease and fluency.

Many men do not talk enough. It is their wives who do all the talking.

Fulbright is somewhat envied by other husbands, who are in a less fortunate position. It is too bad he confines his talk to foreign relations and not in behalf of henpecked husbands. He is missing an opportunity to help other men. So much needs to be done and so few can help.

What got the Arkansas senator in the soup with his wife most recently as his initial pessimistic view about the prospects for peace in Vietnam as a result of the withdrawal of President Lyndon B. Johnson as a candidate to succeed himself.

Mrs. Fulbright gave him the diction for this and the senator grudgingly and with dignity gave ground.

He sits in the Senate, the greatest deliberative body in the world. What could a Senate deliberate if its members didn't talk?

This doesn't impress a wife, not even the wife of a Senator. Who ever heard of a wife, who when confronted with her husband's talk, was willing to take time to deliberate.

It is their habit to return the fire without deliberation.

Pleasant as it would be to uphold Senator Fulbright we cannot in good conscience after careful deliberation give him any credit.

He has placed himself in a lonely position. Mrs. Fulbright is right. The senator will have to defend himself as best he can.

WHAT THEY SAY
 ABOUT NATIONALISM

Our country today, to my mind, needs nationalism, patriotism, Americanism, like it never needed it before in its history, and it should be taught right from the time a youngster goes to kindergarten. We should have reverence for our flag; we should have reverence for the Constitution, our Bill of Rights, and our children should be taught that. For some unknown reason today, they are forgetting American history and those things they used to respect--at least I did when I was a boy. I was taught at West Point duty, honor, country, and I think that motto could well go to all red-blooded Americans. We need it today.

So spoke General George Stratemeyer before a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary a few years ago. His plea that patriotism be instilled into the hearts and minds of all Americans is timely and important.

The history of the United States of America is one of the great success stories of all time. The men and women who founded and built this nation were patriots who shared two distinctive characteristics: faith in God and the courage that grows out of love of country.

"Nationalism" nowadays is often used to convey a negative meaning. There are those in America who decry the existence of what they call a nationalist spirit, and would have us believe there is something wrong about putting the interests of the United States ahead of the interests of other countries.

These are the same people who tell us that patriotism is out of date, that our Constitution is not geared to modern times, that national sovereignty is a silly concept that should be abandoned.

Our forefathers fought for peace with Freedom. But now are we told that the emphasis must be on peace, not Freedom; we are told that we must "strengthen the United Nations"; that we must disarm; that we must submit to strict international controls. In other words, we must surrender on the installment plan to an enemy that has openly declared its intention of wiping out what we call Freedom.

It should be noted that only the United States is being asked to abandon nationalism; that is, a concern for its own interests. In Africa, Asia, Eastern and Western Europe, countries proclaim their nationalistic feelings. Every one of the nations we have subsidized so heavily with dollars from the American taxpayer is concerned first, last and always with national self-interest.

But for the United States, internationalism is held to be the sound and unnecessary goal.

A constant stream of propaganda is poured out to the effect that the United Nations is the great symbol of peace in the world. It is an idea that will not stand up under even the most simple examination.

The kind of "peace" coming from the United Nations caused more than 54,000 Americans to be killed in Korea and more than 103,000 more to be wounded. The UN brand of peace did not prevent the rape and pillage of Katanga. Peace of the UN variety has established Marxist spy rings in the United States. UN "peace-keeping" efforts did not manage to make themselves felt in the Hungarian revolt against Soviet tanks.

When the UN was born, 200 million people in the world were under communist domination. Today, the number is approximately one billion -- about one-third of the human race. Let us not forget that during the time the United Nations has had its headquarters on American soil, communism has advanced to within 90 miles of the U.S. mainland.

The internationalists are eager to extend their policies to trade, as well as aid. In the field of world commerce, they favor policies guided not by what is best for American producers but by what will best serve the interests of other nations.

It is well known that the international course has never been deliberately chosen by the American people. There has been one time in our history when Americans were given an opportunity to make a clear-cut choice between internationalism and American nationalism: in 1920, when the League of Nations was an issue. The advocates of American participation in the League were overwhelmingly defeated.

Since that time, the American people have never been given a chance to vote on proposals to downgrade the national independence of the United States. And since that time, this independence has been worn away by secret diplomacy and deliberate misrepresentation linked with an international conspiracy against freedom.

The internationalists talk much about the "force of reaction" -- those Americans who stand with their patriotic forefathers in giving first attention to the good of their own country. In reality, it is the one-worlder who has the reactionary approach. It is the patriot, the nationalist, if you please, who has the constructive, positive, progressive approach.

The patriot is FOR Freedom; FOR limitation of governmental power in accordance with the Constitution; FOR America standing firm for the principles of Freedom.

This affirmative policy of wanting our government to give first attention to what is best for the United States is scorned by the one-worlders as nationalism.

Why should we not be nationalistic? This is our country, and our Freedom is at stake. We know the American way of life is a good way. We cherish it, and we must employ our best efforts to preserve it.

Under our system, the American people have enjoyed Freedom to an extent that has been the envy of the world. In our enjoyment of it, we have tended to forget that Freedom is never free. Each generation must earn it.

In the world of today, we cannot expect to keep our Freedoms unless we take pride in our heritage and unless we determine to uphold the principles which have thus far secured that Freedom.

A tidal wave of expressed love of country, of interest and participation in formulating the national destiny, could impress the world that we Americans have something very special that other nations could seek for themselves. Such a regeneration of Americanism would give our nation new strength and command respect all over the world.

Certainly we have much to be enthusiastic about, especially if we restore fully the basic principles of the Founding Fathers. Our government was designed as one of limited powers: a government deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed. Many checks and balances were placed on government with the purpose of insuring that no single branch of government could assume overwhelming power. To the extent that those checks and balances have come to be ignored or overridden, to an equal extent our Freedom has suffered.

The first men and women who came to America brought with them the belief that Freedom is God-given. These early Americans were well aware that it is the nature of government to encroach on the Freedoms of the people: they had fled such tyranny.

Later, the belief of these Pilgrims that liberty comes from God was written into the Declaration of Independence.

In the Constitution, they set the pattern for true peace and true liberty for mankind. They gave us the right way of limited government.

That is not the pattern followed by the internationalists. It was not by accident that the charter of the United Nations contains no reference to a super-national being. That omission is completely in keeping with the internationalist pattern.

A tidal wave of magnificent Americanism would bring miraculous results, for Americans and the rest of the world. It could make our treasured Freedom secure and put to rest the doubts now in the minds of other nations as to whether we still possess the will to remain free.

If we really care about Freedom for all people and if we are really concerned about their well-being, we will demonstrate to them that we intend to remain free. We must show them by our deeds and let them know we desire Freedom for them by refusing to give up our own.

Hand Speaks To Club

PORTRAGEVILLE -- Leonard Hand, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the Missouri Community Betterment program at the Garden Club meeting Thursday in the community room of the Farmer's Bank.

"All civic improvement projects should be done in connection with the MCB program," he said.

The program is a big "do-it-yourself" project. He emphasized the necessity of having good leaders and the requirements of being good leaders.

Different projects of the MCB in which the club could participate, were outlined. The beautification program was specifically stressed.

Some of the projects underway are the erection of signs on the new highway; compilation of a list of available housing, and preparation of a system for listing and referring jobs for young people.

An agriculture committee is coordinating interest between city and rural areas. They will be in charge of the tractor pull, contest during the annual soybean festival.

To be aware of projects and problems of the community, interest and attendance of city council meetings were urged.

Mrs. Preston Shaw and Mrs. Hand will represent the club on the steering committee of the MCB, which is composed of two members from each civic or church organization.

Mrs. James Girvin is in charge of the club's annual garden tour. The club will go to Jackson, Tenn., April 18 to tour several outstanding gardens while the azaleas are in the peak of bloom.

A fashion show, luncheon, boat ride on Reelfoot Lake and dinner at the Blue Bank Motel will be the activities for the day.

A potluck picnic, with husbands invited, will be held May 2 at 6 p.m. at the city park. The club will furnish the meat and the hostesses will be the officers.

The attendance prize, one dozen petunia plants and garden tools, was received by Mrs. Margaret Painter.

A dessert mold, nuts and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Thelma Underwood of Bloomfield, Mrs. Delta Wilhams of Dexter, Mrs. Delma Pry of Parma, Mrs. Valerie Davis of New Madrid, Mrs. Sattie Edmunds of Dexter, Hazzie Hale of East Prairie and Carolyn Newman of Sikeston have been dismissed from St. Francis hospital.

Hand Speaks To Club

PORTRAGEVILLE -- Leonard Hand, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the Missouri Community Betterment program at the Garden Club meeting Thursday in the community room of the Farmer's Bank.

"All civic improvement projects should be done in connection with the MCB program," he said.

The program is a big "do-it-yourself" project. He emphasized the necessity of having good leaders and the requirements of being good leaders.

Different projects of the MCB, in which the club could participate, were outlined. The beautification program was specifically stressed.

Birds Set For Opener

ST. LOUIS -- The same line-up that carried the Cardinals to a fast getaway -- they won their first six games last year -- will be on duty Wednesday night when the National League champions face Atlanta at Busch Stadium.

On the other side of the field, though, the Braves will need a scorecard to distinguish newcomers from old hands. No fewer than five -- and maybe six -- fresh faces will open for the Tribe, who feature a "new look" on all counts.

Pat Jarvis, the pride of Carlyle (Ill.), isn't exactly new. But then he's never pitched an opener before and he indicated during Monday's practice session at the downtown stadium that "I'm still on cloud nine."

If Lou Brock hits at the outset of the new campaign the way he did in '67, Jarvis may come down to earth in a hurry. Both Brock and the Red Birds are geared for a quick break out of the chute.

"I've had good starts every year except my first one ('62 with the Chicago Cubs)," recalled the St. Louis road runner.

But Brock never knows from one game to the next, he said, what type of stance he'll wheel out a stand-up or batting crouch.

"In the World Series," said baseball's leading base thief, "I hit from a straight-up style, and an opening night audience of 109 RBIs) and Clete Boyer at the start last year I hit more or less out of a crouch."

Whatever technique he uses, the Cardinals don't want Brock to change.

After all, he blasted enemy pitching or six homers in the RBIs -- and hit .400 through the month of April.

"I've been stinging the ball more, consistently in recent years," added Brock, who wound up '67 with 206 safeties. Only Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente totaled more (209) in the majors.

Dick Sisler, the Cardinals' leave, Harris and his pros enjoyed the balmy 71-degree weather.

battling pedagogue, would prefer that Brock be less imaginative. "He'd been hitting about .480 in spring training," Sisler recalled, "then decided to move back from the plate to hit more to left field. What does he do? Strike out three times in a game."

"Of course," Sisler noted, "you can't predict how he'll start. But Brock's hot hitting last year was a key part in our 6-0 start."

Manager Red Schoendienst, ordering another practice session at noon Tuesday, is staying with his established unit. Brock will lead off and hit ahead of Curt Flood, Roger Maris, Orlando Cepeda, Tim McCarver, Mike Shannon, Julian Javier, Dal Maxvill and pitcher Bob Gibson.

Maris was excused from Monday's work to visit his family in Independence, Mo. The ex-Yankee bomber will participate Tuesday and start against right-hand pitcher Jarvis.

Cardinal spokesmen anticipate the change in dates (26 homers and 96 RBIs) and conflict with the hockey is intact.

PHUOC VINH, Vietnam (UPI) -- Spec. 4 John W. Singleton, New Madrid, Mo., had finished his work here and went to sleep shortly before midnight. Just before going to bed, the casualty clerk for the 101st Airborne Division's 3rd Brigade had written a letter to his girl friend back home, explaining the situation following a recent Viet Cong

"Everything here has been quite clam," he wrote. "Charlie seems to have left us alone while hitting elsewhere."

At 11:50 p.m. enemy rockets and mortars slammed into the base camp.

Donning his flak jacket and steel pot, Singleton joined his buddies in a nearby bunker. Immediately after the "all clear" was sounded he returned to his desk and began writing again. "Addition to my last letter," he started. "Regarding the paragraph concerning the clam here..."

A two-year enlistment program in the Regular Army has been temporarily opened, according to Major Donald G. Laird, commanding officer of the U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station at St. Louis.

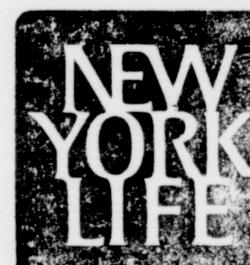

Applications are being limited to men without prior military service, who are between 18 and one-half years and 20 years of age, and are registered with Selective Service. Applicants must not have received orders to report for induction.

There is no limit to the number of dependents an applicant may have. In contrast, an applicant for the Regular Army three-year program may have no more than one dependent.

Referring to the special two-year enlistment option, Major Laird said, "It will allow applicants an opportunity to plan their time of entry into the military service and provide them with various advantages afforded other Regular Army enlistees at basic training sites."

To the Editor
DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD

Dear Sir:

That powerful force, public opinion, has taken a turn to the Right! Voters need not be forced to vote in the election for the lesser of evils and instead be given a choice between fine candidates. This is true from the Court House to the White House. The Presidency of the United States is the most important office in the world and the fate of the free world is dependent upon the U.S. having a great President. Every effort should be made to get the best possible prospects for this vital position to make their thinking known to the citizenry now, in advance of the nominating conventions. The salvation of our beloved Republic can be through unified national loyalty, control of crime, avoidance of no-win-wars and rejection of U.N. interference.

Constructively, H. L. Hunt

Native Perry Countian Files For Treasurer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — James E. (Jim) Ratcliff of Kansas City filed ~~to~~ for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer.

He is a native of Perry County, Missouri, and received his education in St. Louis county. He is a former Jackson County Civil Defense Director and former county land commissioner.

William E. Robinson of Jefferson City and L. E. Morris of Jefferson City also are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Ratcliff has held various political jobs in Jackson County and Kansas City for about 25 years.

He resigned as Jackson County Civil Defense administrator in June 1967 after a county court investigation into allegedly missing civil defense equipment valued in the thousands of dollars. A federal grand jury last month refused to bring any indictments after the government sought action against Ratcliff and another man on what the government said was false and fraudulent statements concerning three fork lifts obtained from the State Agency for Surplus Property at Jefferson City to be used for Civil Defense.

Until now, I had not had to return to the hospital - and this was a normal series of tests.

I sincerely hope that any future visits to the hospital will also be in the realm of the ordinary, but I cannot thank you enough for the one time that it would have set us back many years if I had not been a Blue Cross member.

TOUR UNFARTH
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A 150-year-old Torah which had been hidden for more than a quarter of a century has been presented to Beth Shalom Synagogue.

The Torah had been buried outside Breslau, Germany, in November 1939 to save it from the Nazis. It was recovered after World War II, but was hidden again because of communist oppression in the east sector of Germany.

It was recently smuggled into the West and came into the possession of Dr. Justin Adler, a Memphis psychiatrist who had escaped from Europe during the war. He said he gave the Torah to Beth Shalom to mark the coming of age of the 13-year-old congregation.

PHOENIX (AP) — A tape-recorded sermon to Catholic churches by the Most Rev. Francis J. Green, bishop of the diocese of Tucson, made an impression on at least one person. Hearing a sermon coming from a vacant pulpit, a 3-year-old boy at St. Theresa's asked, "Is that God talking?"

A fee of from $150 to $200 would be charged at the time such service is rendered. The resolution also provides that at least 60 per cent of the homes or rental units in the district must have tags for the department to continue operations.

Volunteer firemen in the district, about 20 miles southwest of St. Louis, were criticized and threatened during a 10-day period in March when they adhered to district bylaws to stand by while tag-holders meeting would allow them to be forced by an angry mob to put out a fire in an untagged house.

The tag-holders will vote on the resolution June 3.

Dear Mr. Baker,

This is a very belated "thank you" for the assistance of Blue Cross - but now the less sincere. About six years ago I was very suddenly stricken with a very rare disease called "Weber-Christensen" - only eight reported cases at that time. I was admitted to the hospital for tests to determine the cause of severe stomach pains. Within a few days surgery was performed. None of the doctors had ever had any contact with "Weber-Christensen" disease but fortunately the surgeon in charge had recently read about it and had seen pictures.

So began a period of nine weeks of hospitalization with eleven blood transfusions, endless I.V.s, much pain but - because of Blue Cross - no financial worry.

Early in the illness, when I began to realize that this was going to be a long stay (at least 3 weeks I thought then) I asked my husband to bring

Farm Population Dips

To 1 of 18 Ratio

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Americans living on farms continued to decline last year to 10,817,000, about one out of every 18 persons, the Census Bureau reported today.

This estimate is 778,000 lower than the 11,595,000 persons the bureau figures lived on farms in 1966.

The farm population represented about 5½ per cent of the total estimated population last year of 197.4 million.

The survey was based on averages for a 12-month period, centered on April of 1967.

Not Landlord's Fault

Carol was concerned about improving her social status and rented an apartment in a fancy new apartment house. While the building was first class, the neighborhood, however, was of the first rank, odorwise. Built about two blocks from a city garbage dump, the smell that floated gently through Carol's open windows was more than noticeable when the breeze was just right.

Extremely upset, Carol packed together her belongings and vacated the apartment. This upset her landlord, in turn, who sued her to collect the unpaid rent under the unexpired portion of her lease.

"He couldn't expect me to live in that building with that odor," was Carol's defense. "While a garbage dump may be a cat's dream of heaven, it's not mine."

"Maybe not," answered the landlord, "but that's got nothing to do with me. I rent apartments and don't operate garbage dumps."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Carol responsible for the unpaid rent?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that where noxious fumes or odors come through open windows of an apartment, the landlord cannot be held responsible unless the source of the odors is due to some wrongful act of the landlord.

Ann Landers

Slap Wrong Even If Wife Immature

Dear Ann Landers: I've read your column long enough to know how you feel about men hitting women — even in self defense. I also know you are a sensible person who realizes there are exceptions to every rule. I hope you will tell me I am an exception because I intend to keep hitting my wife and I'd like to do so with your approval.

Eighteen months ago I married a spoiled brat. She slept till noon and then went out and had lunch with her girl friends. When I'd come home to dinner the bed wasn't made and the breakfast dishes were still in the sink. Also, there was no dinner. She decided it was dumb to cook because the cooks in the restaurants were better than she was. There was never any food in the house. A mouse would have Finally I got mad and went to her father and told him my problem. He said it was my fault for not being a good father. I think he was right.

Dear Bent: People who borrow money and make no effort to repay it display a serious character deficiency. So don't write off your friend as being a bad person.

Dear Bent: So you slap your wife around and now everything is just lovely at your house? What do you want from me? I'm not a good person.

Just because you married an immature girl who responds to a child's punishment, doesn't mean it is right, or even acceptable. I hope you recognize the fact that your wife has a loose connection in the attic.

Furthermore, she may be your obedient slave at the moment but don't be surprised if one day her hostility manifests itself in some mighty strange ways.

Dear Ann Landers: If I am presenting a pettily jerk please say so and I'll mend my ways. Some things tell me there's more involved here than just the dough.

One Man-One Vote Ruling Applies Simple Arithmetic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pros get in line with Supreme Court, polled by logic and an extra-made law. At the beginning of 1967 there were 81,253 units of local government, the Supreme Court has been 3,049 county governments, 18,051 municipal governments, 17,107 township governments, 21,782 school districts and 21,264 other special districts.

If state legislatures must be based on districts that are substantially equal in population, as the court said in June 1964 they must be, shouldn't city, town and county governing bodies be creatures of these legislatures be bound by the same rule?

It took almost four years and a few false starts, but April 15 five decisions decided the logic was inexorable.

Library Signs Contract For Expanded Services

The public library has signed an agreement for a cooperative service with Riverside Regional Library with headquarters at Jackson.

Norval Cannon, president of the library board, said that as a result the Sikeston library hopes to gradually expand its services. The contract will be in effect until Dec. 31, 1969.

The Riverside library is composed of the Cape Girardeau county, Perry county and Scott county libraries. It maintains centers at Ilmo, Benton, Perryville and Altenburg in addition to Jackson.

Each library district will retain a separate board and staff but jointly offer broadened services. One of the first tasks will be to make arrangements for a children's summer reading program.

Greater discounts will be available from joint purchases of Sikeston rural and Mrs. L. H. Shipman of Ilmo as alternate.

"It is felt that participating libraries working together collectively will be able to broaden library services and reach goals not within the reach of any single library," the contract states.

The cooperative library service will be governed by a board to which each participating library has elected three members.

Cannon appointed Mrs. Robert Dempster, Mrs. Harry White and Tom Gilmore to represent the Sikeston library with Paul R. Dr. Fischer is president of the Riverside board.

Newsman Notes Improved Defenses on Hanoi Revisit

Editor's Note:

William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami News, has made a compatriot in eastern Europe for his second trip to North Vietnam, for rolling stock. The return is his first visit in January, 1967. On both trips he was accompanied by Harry Ashmore, former editor of the Arkansas Gazette and now executive vice president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

By BILL BAGGS

Editor of The Miami News (Copyright 1968, The Miami News)

HANOI, North Vietnam (Delayed) (AP) — The first impression acquired by a reporter returning to Hanoi 14 months later is that a kind of mutual escalation prevails over this war in North Vietnam.

In Hanoi incidentally, but conspicuously in the countryside, you see the violent wake of the American bombers. The damage from aerial bombardment is much greater than when this writer visited North Vietnam in January, 1967.

However, as the air raids have proliferated, the North Vietnamese have "escalated" their defenses and their competence to survive a more intense war from the air.

The Hanoi area, for instance, must be nested in one of the most sophisticated and effective warning systems in the world. Through the metallic voices of the hundreds of loudspeakers across the city, the people are alerted when U.S. planes are headed toward Hanoi. The warning may be repeated two or three times as the planes approach. The siren is sounded when the bombers are within 10 to 25 miles of Hanoi, and at this signal the people hustle to the thousands of shelters here.

The efficiency of the warning system may be measured by the fact that American aircraft flew over or near Hanoi eleven (11) times over this reporter's first weekend in the city. (March 29, 30, 31). Bombs were dropped (not in the city but in the suburbs) on several occasions and only once was there not enough time given the people to hot foot it to a shelter. The exception was when a reconnaissance plane sneaked through the radar web and was in the city's air space before it was discovered.

The plane had not crossed over Hanoi before the anti-aircraft made its ugly, staccato announcement, and you could hear the busy reports of groundfire from southwest of the city, out beyond Hanoi to the east, along the banks of the Red River.

A little more than a year ago, the rolling stock in Vietnam appeared to be the ragged items of an impoverished motor pool. The trucks were old, usually small, and frequently you saw them stalled or expired along the road ways of the country.

Now it is apparent that North Vietnam has invested much of its line of credit with the country in 1967.

Something which appears to be a purely Vietnamese conception is the "one-person bomb shelter." This consists of a concrete pipe, planted in the ground, about three feet in diameter. It comes with a lid of concrete or woven bamboo, which you slap on after you jump into it.

These are remarkably effective shelters, and there are now tens of thousands of them in Hanoi. You are informed by independent witnesses in the diplomatic corps that persons have survived the impact of anti-aircraft missiles landing only four feet from these one-person shelter holes. You cannot verify this, but you can believe it.

Much has been reported and rumored of the bombing of Hanoi, and the leaders here tell you that the city was bombed 50 times in 1967.

But Hanoi is not really a blitzed city in the traumatic style of Rotterdam, or even London, in World War II. Rather, it has been sort of nickel at. Or perhaps they were nuisance raids or those punishing mis-tares common to the making of war.

This may be a cruel way to express an impression of the bombing of Hanoi, because quite a few people were killed and injured when bombs fell.

The Rev. Mr. Jones illustrated the transformation that occurs in man after death by describing the energy found in coal, which can be converted to many uses, and of a flower bulb.

HANOI, North Vietnam (Delayed) (AP) — The first impression acquired by a reporter returning to Hanoi 14 months later is that a kind of mutual escalation prevails over this war in North Vietnam.

In Hanoi incidentally, but conspicuously in the countryside, you see the violent wake of the American bombers. The damage from aerial bombardment is much greater than when this writer visited North Vietnam in January, 1967.

However, as the air raids have proliferated, the North Vietnamese have "escalated" their defenses and their competence to survive a more intense war from the air.

The Hanoi area, for instance, must be nested in one of the most sophisticated and effective warning systems in the world. Through the metallic voices of the hundreds of loudspeakers across the city, the people are alerted when U.S. planes are headed toward Hanoi. The warning may be repeated two or three times as the planes approach. The siren is sounded when the bombers are within 10 to 25 miles of Hanoi, and at this signal the people hustle to the thousands of shelters here.

The efficiency of the warning system may be measured by the fact that American aircraft flew over or near Hanoi eleven (11) times over this reporter's first weekend in the city. (March 29, 30, 31). Bombs were dropped (not in the city but in the suburbs) on several occasions and only once was there not enough time given the people to hot foot it to a shelter. The exception was when a reconnaissance plane sneaked through the radar web and was in the city's air space before it was discovered.

The plane had not crossed over Hanoi before the anti-aircraft made its ugly, staccato announcement, and you could hear the busy reports of groundfire from southwest of the city, out beyond Hanoi to the east, along the banks of the Red River.

A little more than a year ago, the rolling stock in Vietnam appeared to be the ragged items of an impoverished motor pool.

The trucks were old, usually small, and frequently you saw them stalled or expired along the road ways of the country.

Now it is apparent that North Vietnam has invested much of its line of credit with the country in 1967.

Housing Official To City

George Karskoon, Ft. Worth, Tex., a representative of the department of housing and urban development will fly to Sikeston today to answer questions regarding a leased housing program for Sikeston.

Billy Hanna, director of the Sikeston Housing Authority, notified builders and investors who previously expressed interest in the lease program that Karskoon will be at the Housing Authority office this afternoon, all day tomorrow and Thursday morning.

The Sikeston Housing Authority received official approval last Tuesday to lease 100 houses. The houses must be built by September to benefit from the program, Hanna said.

The building of 100 units by private investors will cost more than a million dollars based on an average cost of $10,000 per unit.

The additional property would generate between $18,000 and $20,000 added annual revenue to the city from city taxes.

The program would boost the local economy because local materials and labor would most likely be employed in construction, Hanna said.

The private investors would be required to pay taxes and insurance on the buildings, he continued.

Although the Housing Authority received approval to lease 100 units last Tuesday, it will not enter into an actual lease contract until the units are built.

It will award letters of intent to contractors and investors guaranteeing the Housing Authority will rent the units for 10 years if they are built by September.

The amount of rent will depend on the size of the unit. Low income persons will pay a percentage of the monthly rent bill.

The remainder of the bill will be paid by the Sikeston Housing authority with funds received through the HUD office under the leased housing program.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

After the honeymoon, a married woman is not comfortable on her husband's lap.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who has a long history of chatter, reports that his wife complains that he talks too much.

Fulbright has stuck his foot in his mouth on an occasion or two.

He has a background as a teacher before going to Congress. Both are talkative occupations. The ultimate, of course, would be to combine these professions with barbering or preaching or both.

Teachers often acquire an unsatisfactory appetite for hearing the sound of their own voice. Whether they have anything to say can become secondary. Why not? Talking becomes a habit and those who talk a lot usually talk with the greatest ease and fluency.

Many men do not talk enough. It is their wives who do all the talking.

Fulbright is somewhat envied by other husbands, who are in a less fortunate position. It is too bad he confines his talk to foreign relations and not in behalf of henpecked husbands. He is missing an opportunity to help other men. So much needs to be done and so few can help.

What got the Arkansas senator in the soup with his wife most recently as his initial pessimistic view about the prospects for peace in Vietnam as a result of the withdrawal of President Lyndon B. Johnson as a candidate to succeed himself.

Mrs. Fulbright gave him the dicken for this and the senator grudgingly and with dignity gave ground.

He sits in the Senate, the greatest deliberative body in the world. What could a Senate deliberate if its members didn't talk?

This doesn't impress a wife, not even the wife of a Senator. Who ever heard of a wife, who when confronted with her husband's talk, was willing to take time to deliberate.

It is their habit to return the fire without deliberation.

Pleasant as it would be to uphold Senator Fulbright we cannot in good conscience after careful deliberation give him any credit.

He has placed himself in a lonely position. Mrs. Fulbright is right. The senator will have to defend himself as best he can.

WHAT THEY SAY
ABOUT NATIONALISM

Our country today, to my mind, needs nationalism, patriotism, Americanism, like it never needed it before in its history, and it should be taught right from the time a youngster goes to kindergarten. We should have reverence for our flag; we should have reverence for the Constitution, our Bill of Rights, and our children should be taught that. For some unknown reason today, they are forgetting American history and those things they used to respect--at least I did when I was a boy. I was taught at West Point duty, honor, country, and I think that motto could well go to all red-blooded Americans. We need it today.

So spoke General George Stratemeyer before a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary a few years ago. His plea that patriotism be instilled into the hearts and minds of all Americans is timely and important.

The history of the United States of America is one of the great success stories of all time. The men and women who founded and built this nation were patriots who shared two distinctive characteristics: faith in God and the courage that grows out of love of country.

"Nationalism" nowadays is often used to convey a negative meaning. There are those in America who decry the existence of what they call a nationalist spirit, and would have us believe there is something wrong about putting the interests of the United States ahead of the interests of other countries.

These are the same people who tell us that patriotism is out of date, that our Constitution is not geared to modern times, that national sovereignty is a silly concept that should be abandoned.

Our forefathers fought for peace with Freedom. But now are we told that the emphasis must be on peace, not Freedom; we are told that we must "strengthen the United Nations"; that we must disarm; that we must submit to strict international controls. In other words, we must surrender on the installment plan to an enemy that has openly declared its intention of wiping out what we call Freedom.

It should be noted that only the United States is being asked to abandon nationalism; that is, a concern for its own interests. In Africa, Asia, Eastern and Western Europe, countries proclaim their nationalistic feelings. Every one of the nations we have subsidized so heavily with dollars from the American taxpayer is concerned first, last and always with national self-interest.

But for the United States, internationalism is held to be the sound and unnecessary goal.

A constant stream of propaganda is poured out to the effect that the United Nations is the great symbol of peace in the world. It is an idea that will not stand up under even the most simple examination.

The kind of "peace" coming from the United Nations caused more than 54,000 Americans to be killed in Korea and more than 103,000 more to be wounded. The UN brand of peace did not prevent the rape and pillage of Katanga. Peace of the UN variety has established Marxist spy rings in the United States. UN "peace-keeping" efforts did not manage to make themselves felt in the Hungarian revolt against Soviet tanks.

When the UN was born, 200 million people in the world were under communist domination. Today, the number is approximately one billion -- about one-third of the human race. Let us not forget that during the time the United Nations has had its headquarters on American soil, communism has advanced to within 90 miles of the U.S. mainland.

The internationalists are eager to extend their policies to trade, as well as aid. In the field of world commerce, they favor policies guided not by what is best for American producers but by what will best serve the interests of other nations. Teachers often acquire an unsatisfactory appetite for hearing the sound of their own voice. Whether they have anything to say can become secondary. Why not? Talking becomes a habit and those who talk a lot usually talk with the greatest ease and fluency.

Many men do not talk enough. It is their wives who do all the talking.

Under our system, the American people have enjoyed Freedom to an extent that has been the envy of the world. In our enjoyment of it, we have tended to forget that Freedom is never free. Each generation must earn it.

In the world of today, we cannot expect to keep our Freedoms unless we take pride in our heritage and unless we determine to uphold the principles which have thus far secured that Freedom. The Patrol Superintendent urged drivers to be particularly alert for pedestrians during Holy Week. He pointed out that many people will be walking to special church services. At the same time, Hockaday reminded pedestrians of the need for them to follow the rules of safe walking during this period.

"Many people will be traveling to visit relatives and friends over to Easter Sunday weekend," the Colonel continued. "The highways will be crowded. It behooves everyone, therefore, to use caution on their travels.

"The traffic death toll during this year's Holy Week can be held to a minimum, if both drivers and pedestrians obey the traffic laws and use common sense," he concluded.

Hand Speaks To Club

PORTEGEVILLE -- Leonard Hand, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the Missouri Community Betterment program at the Garden Club meeting Thursday in the community room of the Farmer's Bank.

"All civic improvement projects should be done in connection with the MCB program," he said.

The program is a big "do-it-yourself" project. He emphasized the necessity of having good leaders and the requirements of being good leaders.

Different projects of the MCB, in which the club could participate, were outlined. The beautification program was specifically stressed.

Some of the projects of the MCB, in which the club could participate, were outlined. The beautification program was specifically stressed.

Some of the projects underway are the erection of signs on the new highway; compilation of a list of available housing, and preparation of a system for listing and referring jobs open for young people.

An agriculture committee is coordinating interest between city and rural areas. They will be in charge of the tractor pull, a contest during the annual soybean festival.

To be aware of projects and problems of the community, interest and attendance of city council meetings were urged.

Mrs. Preston Shaw and Mrs. Hand will represent the club on the steering committee of the MCB, which is composed of two members from each civic or church organization.

Mrs. James Givins is in charge of the club's annual garden tour. The club will go to Jackson, Tenn., April 18 to tour several outstanding gardens while the azaleas are in the peak of bloom.

A fashion show, luncheon, boat ride on Reelfoot Lake and dinner at the Blue Bank Motel will be the activities for the day.

A potluck picnic, with husbands invited, will be held May 2 at 6 p.m., at the city park. The club will furnish the meat and the hostesses will be the officers.

The attendance prize, one dozen petunia plants and garden tools, was received by Mrs. Margaret Painter.

A dessert mold, nuts and coffee were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. H. Workman, Sr., Mrs. Raymond Sevey, Mrs. Arthur Drerup and Mrs. Ruth Lee.

Sixteen members and three guests, Mrs. Raeden Dragseth, Mrs. Herman Priggle and E. K. Morgan, attended. Mrs. Dragseth was welcomed into the club as a new member.

started as an effort to assure justice to minorities has degenerated to a permissiveness that allows a minute minority of a minority to sack the country, almost at will. Since authorities have accepted, by their silence, the rule voiced by an eloquent apostle of the rabble, that unjust laws should and would be violated, domestic tranquility has suffered and now all hell has broken loose.

The majority takes the blows and the blame and deservedly so according to the gospel of the Committees and the Commissions and a large segment of the Establishment.

Balderdash!!! The blame lies solely and wholly with the Elected Officials and the Courts and Bureaucrats appointed by them. Are we governed by a society of masochists???

TORAH UNNEARTHED
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A 150-year-old Torah which had been hidden for more than a quarter of a century has been presented to Beth Shalom Synagogue.

The Torah had been buried outside Breslau, Germany, in November 1939 to save it from the Nazis. It was recovered after World War II, but was hidden again because of communist oppression in the east sector of Germany.

It was recently smuggled into the West and came into the possession of Dr. Justin Adler, a Memphis psychiatrist who had escaped from Europe during the war. He said he gave the Torah to Beth Shalom to mark the coming of age of the 13-year-old congregation.

HE'S IMPRESSED

PHOENIX (AP) — A tape-recorded sermon to Catholic churches by the Most Rev. Francis J. Green, bishop of the diocese of Tucson, made an impression on at least one person. Hearing a sermon coming from a vacant pulpit, a 3-year-old boy at St. Theresa's asked, "Is that God talking?"

A fee of from $150 to $200 would be charged at the time such service is rendered. The resolution also provides that at least 60 per cent of the homes or rental units in the district must have tags for the department to continue operations.

Volunteer firemen in the district, about 20 miles southwest of St. Louis, were criticized and threatened during a 10-day period in March when they adhered to district bylaws to stand by while two untagged homes burned. Once they were forced by an angry mob to put out a fire.

The tag-holders will vote on the resolution June 3.

CINDY GREENWOOD, East Prairie pianist, participated in the annual talent and variety show sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club at the Junior High School auditorium.

Native Perry Countian Files For Treasurer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — James E. (Jim) Ratcliff of Kansas City filed ~~to~~ for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer.

He is a native of Perry County, Missouri, and received his education in St. Louis county. He is a former Jackson County Civil Defense Director and former county land commissioner.

William E. Robinson of Jefferson City and L. E. Morris of Jefferson City also are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Ratcliff has held various political jobs in Jackson County and Kansas City for about 25 years.

He resigned as Jackson County Civil Defense administrator in June 1967 after a county court investigation into allegedly missing civil defense equipment valued in the thousands of dollars. A federal grand jury last month refused to bring any indictments after the government sought action against Ratcliff and another man on what the government said was false and fraudulent statements concerning three fork lifts obtained from the State Agency for Surplus Property at Jefferson City to be used for Civil Defense.

Allow Untagged House To Be Doused Once

HIGH RIDGE, Mo. (AP) — A resolution introduced Monday at a two untagged homes burned. Once tag-holders meeting would allow the High Ridge fire department to put out a fire in an untagged house "at least once."

Dear Mr. Baker,

This is a very belated "thank you" for the existence of Blue Cross - but now the less sincere. About six years ago I was very suddenly stricken with a very rare disease called "Weber-Christian" - only eight reported cases at that time. I was admitted to the hospital for test to determine the cause of severe stomach pains. Within a few days surgery was performed. None of the doctors had ever had any contact with "weber-Christian" disease but fortunately the surgeon in charge had recently read about it and had seen pictures.

To begin a period of nine weeks hospitalization with eleven blood transfusions, endless I.V.s, much pain but - because of Blue Cross - no financial worry.

Early in the illness, when I began to realize that this was going to be a long stay (at least 3 weeks I thought then) I asked my husband to bring

I sincerely hope that any future visits to the hospital will also be in the realm of the "ordinary", but I cannot thank you enough for the one time that it would have set us back many years if I had not been a Blue Cross member.

Sincerely
Elaine K. Holtonson

The letter of appreciation reproduced above is one of many written to Blue Cross by its members.

It's a good feeling to belong to Maps show Weather Bureau's forecast of average temperature, precipitation for the period through April 30.

Most of the nation is expected to have normal or above-normal temperatures except for cooler averages in the Central and Southern Plains regions.

The U.S. birth rate—the number of live births per 1,000 of the total population—hit a new low last year but total number of births—3.53 million—was much higher than the previous low, during the Depression, because of the much larger population.

Farm Population Dips

To 1 of 18 Ratio

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Americans living on farms continued to decline last year to 10,817,000, about one out of every 18 persons, the Census Bureau reported today.

This estimate is 778,000 lower than the 11,595,000 persons the bureau figures lived on farms in 1966.

The farm population represented about 5% per cent of the total estimated population last year of 197,4 million.

The survey was based on averages for a 12-month period, centered on April of 1967.

If You Were the Judge

Odors from Dump

Not Landlord's Fault

Carol was concerned about improving her social status and rented an apartment in a fancy new apartment house. While the building was first class, the neighborhood, however, was of the first rank, odorewise. Built about two blocks from a city garbage dump, the smell that leaked through Carol's open windows was more than noticeable when the breeze was just right.

Extremely upset, Carol packed together her belongings and vacated the apartment. This upset her landlord, in turn, who sued her to collect the unpaid rent under the unexpired portion of her lease.

"He couldn't expect me to live in that building with that odor," was Carol's defense. "While a garbage dump may be a cat's dream of heaven, it's not mine."

"Maybe not," answered the landlord, "but that's got nothing to do with me. I rent apartments and don't operate garbage dumps."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Carol responsible for the unpaid rent?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that where noxious fumes or odors come through open windows of an apartment, the landlord cannot be held responsible unless the source of the odors is due to some wrongful act of the landlord.

One Man-One Vote Ruling Applies Simple Arithmetic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pro's get in line with Supreme Court by logic and an extra-made law. At the beginning of 1967 there is, the Supreme Court has been 81,253 units of local government spun out the revolution it began in the United States, in March 1962 when it gave fed. This includes 3,049 county general courts jurisdiction over governments, 18,051 municipal governments, 17,107 township governments, 21,782 school districts if state legislatures must be governments, 21,782 school districts based on districts that are substantially equal in population, as the court said in June 1964 they must be, shouldn't city, town and county governing bodies that are creatures of these legislatures be bound by the same rule?

It took almost four years and a few false starts, but April 1 five Justices decided the logic was inexorable.

"The actions of local government are the actions of the state," Justice Byron R. White reasoned. Logically he found the difference between the exercise of state power through legislatures and its exercise by election officials in the cities, towns and counties.

The logical simplicity was what appeared to irk most of the three dissenters, Thurgood Marshall, the ninth justice, did not participate.

Potter Stewart scorned the use of "sixth-grade arithmetic" cal bodies, the ruling serves to resolve subtle problems of largely as an admonition that if they ever adopt the election-by.

Abe Fortas said his colleagues district system they cannot had passed over a complex of draw districts substantially unvalues and factors with "the equal in population, arithmetic simplicity of one. Some of these 60,000 may be exempt, White's decision hinted.

And John M. Harlan de-scribed himself as "frankly as case of the 'special purpose' tonish at the ease" with unit of government." The decision which the court brought one sion is not explicit, however, man-one vote to grassroots government and the question of application awaits future court actions.

But these were the complaints. Among the school districts, of dissenters. The die is cast, the impact of the ruling appears. The remaining question is how limited. Most school board cities, towns and counties will members are elected at large,
